

Flow Digital Video adds HD channels and Blackbelt TV

St. George's, Grenada, January 4, 2011 – With the launch of Flow's Digital Video platform in May 2010, customers were able to enjoy more channels and packages, among many additional benefits. Today, Flow continues to deliver on its commitment to provide a unique viewing experience to its customers with the introduction of Blackbelt TV, which is offered as part of our Digital Video Extreme Package on channel 312. This channel features programming such as Kung Fu Movies and Tournaments. The channel can also be selected as part of a customer's customizable Flow Your Own package.

In addition, digital customers are now able to experience a number of channels in High Definition (HD). Among these are Lifetime Movie Network HD (Channel 121), HBO HD (Channel 203) and The Africa Channel HD (Channel 55). Our team continues to work assiduously to make more channels available in High Definition throughout the New Year.

Delran Andrews, Marketing Executive, expressed her pleasure with the introduction of added benefits for customers, "Flow Digital Video has not only become so much more fun but our customers can now watch much more at far better quality in HD."

Customers are reminded that Flow offers a host of additional services which enhance the overall digital video service experience with us. Among these are:

- Ability to customize your viewing options with the 'Flow Your Own' package
- Our on-screen Programming Guide, which allows customers to search and set reminders for their preferred programs
- Personal Video Recorder - ability to pause, rewind and record your favourite shows
- Enhanced Parental Control Features
- Games on Channel 900 on our Standard Definition platform, or 901 on our High Definition and Video Recorder set top boxes.
